I got my BSN in the US ^[1]

I got my BSN in the US, passed NCLEX and got my employment authorization. I am currently on F1 visa, and working at a nursing home. I live in MN and it was extremely hard to get a job. How do I apply for a green card and what role will my employer play in this process? Is it going to cost my employer any money? And how long is it going to take to get a green card?

ANSWER:

Your employer's role in this process is limited. You can pay for all expenses yourself. The length of the process is determined by the country of birth.
